

Hospital Lecture Series Planned at South Bay

A second lecture series on "Immediate Care of the Sick and Injured," for persons who need advanced first-aid information in their daily occupations, is now being organized at South Bay Hospital.

Dr. Arnold C. Niemeyer, past chief of staff at South Bay Hospital, has sent letters announcing the series to fire departments, police departments, lifeguards, and various industries in the South Bay cities of Manhattan Beach, Hermosa Beach, Redondo Beach, Palos Verdes Estates and El Segundo.

The 16-part series will be essentially the same as the one offered last spring, and will be structured in the form of a post-graduate first aid course for individuals who have completed Red Cross

First Aid courses, Dr. Niemeyer said.

THE PROGRAM will be under auspices of the South Bay Hospital emergency room committee, the emergency and disaster committee of South-west District of Los Angeles County Medical Assn., and the training division of Area G Medical Service of Civil Defense. Dr. Niemeyer serves as emergency and disaster committee chairman and as medical director for Area G.

The course will be conducted by South Bay Hospital staff physicians and will cover such subjects as shock and bleeding, chest emergency, pediatric emergency, orthopedic emergency, head, neck and back injury; burns, childbirth, psychiatric emergency, irradiation, electrocution, cardiac emergency, and transportation of injured persons.

In charge of lectures and organization of the series are Drs. John N. Steward and Ronald T. Piccirillo.

DR. NIEMEYER said the first lecture series has drawn inquiries from out of the South Bay area, with the result that one organization, the Vernon Fire Department, already has applied for enrollments in the second series.

Safety departments of local industrial concerns have expressed interest in the program. In the first lecture series, approximately 60 local firemen, policemen, lifeguards and ambulance crews were enrolled.
